DETAILED ACTION

The Preliminary Amendment, filed on February 16, 2005 has been entered and acknowledged by the Examiner.

Claims 1-8 are currently pending in the instant application.

Specification

The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by 'Gas Display Panel', IBM Technical Disclosure Bulletin, June 1974, pages 284-285.

Regarding claim 1 the Bulletin discloses (Figs. 1, 3) a display panel comprising a pair of plates (two glass substrates) opposed to each other with an enclosed discharge space in between and one plate 2 having a communication hole 4 communicating with inside of the display panel and a gas adsorption member 8 having a hole disposed in the vicinity of the hole 4.

Regarding claim 2 the Bulletin discloses in Fig. 3 an exhausting pipe 14 having a pedestal is coupled to the plate 2 and the gas adsorption member 8 is disposed in the space formed by the pedestal and the plate having communication hole 4.

Regarding claim 3 the bulletin discloses in Fig. 1 the hole of the gas adsorption member 8 has greater cross section area than that of the hole 4.

Regarding claim 5 the Bulletin discloses the size of the gas adsorption member 8 is greater than the inner diameter of the exhausting pipe 14 and the diameter of the communication hole 4.

Regarding claims 6 and 8 the bulletin discloses in Fig. 1 the hole of the gas adsorption member 8 has greater cross section area than that of the hole 4.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over 'Gas Display Panel', IBM Technical Disclosure Bulletin, June 1974, pages 284-285.

Regarding claim 4 the Bulletin discloses the claimed invention except the hole of the gas adsorption member 8 having a greater cross section area than the inner cross section area of the pipe. It is noted that increasing the cross section area of the getter ring increases the absorption effect. Furthermore it has been held that a change in size is generally recognized as being within the level of ordinary skill in the art. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to have the gas adsorption member 8 having greater cross section area than the inner cross section area of the exhausting pipe 14, for increasing the gettering effect, since such a modification would have involved a mere change in the size of a component.

Claim 7 essentially recites the same claim limitation as claim 4 and hence the same reason.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. U.S. Patent 6,039,620 to Itoh et al. discloses getter in form of a ring used in a display.
